Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

From the slack business, it looks like August must have run over into September.

August was the damnest month in the year, and always is Things will begin to pick up as soon as some seed money begins circulating.

Suppose Grenada had to depend ENTIRELY, as many towns do, upon cotton and cottonseed. Wouldn't we be in a hell of a shape?

The final results showed that Ford beat our man Rayburn 2 to 1. That fight is over as far as we are concerned. We are ready to bury the hatchet, but will be damn sure to leave the handle sticking out.

From the maneuvers in and about the post office, it looks like our new postmaster, R. D. Sharp, will soon be dishing out stamps. Hope and believe that he will make a good one.

Hurrah for old Bilbo. He is our senator too, I was just "raised" to vote against Bilbo. Not that I dislike him. Bilbo is the poor man's friend, they say, but I have yet to find out what he ever did for us poor ones. However, we offer congratulations, and hope he will make an A-1 senator. He has plenty of sense and is not nearly as mean and low-down as Fred Sullens and I tried to make out.

Well, we finally got by another 1st of the month, by good luck and the forbearance of our creditors.

Speaking of Bilbo, unless he puts us back on the Congressional Record mailing list, we are going to cut that scutter-buck off our mailing list.

2-Spot Clark and wife have moved back to Calhoun City. Their feet got sore over here walking on brick and concrete.

Cooley and his farmers have finally got their terracing outfit. Congratulations.

Wonder when we are going to get another good government check. It seems ages since we got the last one.

Me and Mike are figuring on taking a trip over to Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia sometime soon. I sorter want to go back to my old sporting ground, which I have not visited in 23 years.

I have been wanting to go to the Veterans Hospital, but it has taken about two weeks, and I haven't got the papers yet. A fellow could die and rot in that time.

Bilbo never carried this county until Hurd Horton got converted to his cause. Hurd is a good one.

Our Washington bundle is getting larger and larger. Durrow Horn Jr., who recently went there to help Stimson run the U. S. Army—and it looks like he has been running it better since Durrow got there—has become a subscriber of the Grenada Gut.

Our good old friend, Uncle Greek Cunningham, we understand, has resigned from the county election commission after having served twelve years. Due to the infirmatives of age Uncle Greek is getting quite feeble, but he has fought a noble fight for 80 years for the causes that he thought right.

The power trust boys, their friends and customers, had a grand time at the Barwin Tuesday night.

For Sale: A set of false teeth. See Dr. Clanton.

Aint they sweet.

They say that the new supervisor, J. B. Strider, is making a good one.

James Russell Lockett is still alive, fortunately.

We were figuring on having a big piece about TVA this week, but the big ad from the power trust crowded it out.

If Grenada County pursues the same sensible financial policy for a few more years, it will be in such a condition that it will be the envy of all neighboring counties. Grenada county has reduced its bonded debt over 300 thousand dollars in the past 8 years.

We were much impressed with an article under the head, "Dis and Dat" by Mrs. Florence S. Ogden, in the Greenville Democrat-Times recently. Mrs. Ogden points out, many by name, the enormous number of foreign "professors" in our leading colleges. She says, and we agree with her, that what we need in America is the teaching of American philosophy, and not foreign "isms". Mrs. Ogden is a sister of Hon. Walter Sillers, of Rosedale, wrecker of two gravy trains, the Bilbo train and the Johnson train.

Excess Tonnage Draws $1 Fine In J.P. Court Here

In Mr. Mack McKibben's Justice of the Peace Court, held here Monday, F. R. Taylor and Eston Rives were fined one dollar and costs. These gentlemen had violated the "Motor Carriers Act of 1938" by using their trucks for "hire" without the proper license.

It appears that these two men did not break the law intentionally—thus the very light fine. Mr. Taylor and Rives were charged with operating on a commercial basis with a private license. They had gone over to the Sheriff's ocice and bought a permit that allowed them to increase their tonnage to the amount needed to haul one certain load. They were informed at the sherrif's office that this permit was all that was necessary. Clayton Carpenter, deputy sherrif, was in error and through his generosity and wanting to do the fair thing paid the fine.

From here out, the law enforcing officers of Grenada County are going to crack down on those opperating on a commercial basis with a private license. The cost of a license for a heavy truck doing hauling and receiving pay is approximately $500.00. On the other hand, a truck with the same tonnage, hauling privately owned property is about $100.00. The truckers in Grenada County that comply with all the laws of commercial hauling, justly, think that other haulers should be made to pay the same as they do.

Our good old Confederate friend, W. P. Blakeley, was in Grenada Wednesday. There are but three old Rebs left in this county, and even just three may be a record, for we often read of the "last" Confederate veteran in various country newspapers. A. F. Clark of Mt. Nebo, W. M. Dubard of Grenada, and W. P. Blakeley of Providence constitute Grenada County's list.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

Before leaving the District to return to my duties in Washington, I received the news of my overwhelming majority in the August 27th primary and that I had again been nominated to represent the Fourth Congressional District in Congress. The credit for this victory wholly belongs to my friends and I am deeply grateful to all of you for your many efforts in my behalf. I had only a few days in the District before election day and it was impossible to see all of you, but I want to return to the District as soon as possible for a longer visit.

I asked you to re-elect me on my record and the services I had rendered. You responded most graciously and I dedicate myself to your service for the next two years.

This country is facing one of the most trying times since the war between the States. I hope that I may continue to enjoy your cooperation during the next two years and that we may all move forward together.

Again thanking you for such a splendid majority given me, I am,

Sincerely your friend,

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

The possibility of drainage of the Yalobusha River is now very, very remote, since the election resulted as it did.

Smiling Bob Carpenter sent in enough money to get the GCW another year, even before he got any seed money. Guess he was happy about Bilbo, and used that method to celebrate.

Nobody killed on 51 south Saturday night.

Banker Dudley Crawford from the swamp at Moorhead spent Sunday in Grenada.

Several of our Greenwood friends came to Grnada to see the train pass Sunday afternoon.

Cotton seed is the only unmortgaged crop in the South, and even they are fully mortgaged, but nobody pays any attention to that mortgage. By common consent, mortgages on seed are waived.

The lion and the lamb, Col. Henry Henry Kahn of Duck Hill, and Ed Crump (S. H.) Horton of Grenada, had a long political conference recently. When they got through the colonel was still landing Conner and "Ed" was still egging him on.

The past election seemed to hurt Col. Will Hoffa as much as it did Hugh White. He was in a sort of daze or coma several days after the election.

Kirk is in good standing for another twelve months. Kirk has that rare faculty of knowing the flesh marks of an animal. He can, and will buy a yearling, white driving along the road 10 miles and more, pay for the yearling, and will know the yearling's hide in a tan yard when the yearling gets to be a big bull or cow, depending on what kind of yearling it was.

Recently Grenada suffered a real loss when Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Mc Clintock decided to leave Grenada and to make their home in Jackson. Jimmie a retired railroad engineer is in for anything while Mrs. Mac took active interest in civic clubs and community betterment in all phases.

With the Longstaple Shortstaple outfit out of the way, we can go back to boosting Grenada.

Alderman Harry Burkley must have drawn his pay or got hold of some money, for he renewed his subscription recently.

TWENTIETH CENTURY

The members of the Twentieth Century Club had the pleasure of "Looking Backward" when the first meeting of the year was held in the home of Mrs. Earl Bailey. Mrs. Bailey, with Mrs. J. L. Cooley, who was co-hostess, had added to the already beautiful home with a profusion of late summer flowers.

Mrs. C. C. Penn gave a most interesting and mirth-provoking account of prevailing fashions and customs taken from Cohn's book, "In The Good Old Days". Mrs. F. A. Stacy, in her witty manner, enlightened us as to "Books that were read and fashions that were followed when the club was young". She gave a short resume of the activities of the club, notable among which were the sponsoring of the public library now house in the community house. While this club has been organized since 1926, it has been known as the Twentieth Century Club since 1930, having previously been called the Mothers' Club. Turning to a lighter vein, the attractive Miss Sue Rowell modeled for Mrs. Stacy some ultra stylish wearing apparel of days gone by.

Mrs. R. M. Smith played some of the popular "Music of Twelve Years Ago". As always, her rendition was much enjoyed.

The hostesses served their guests a frozen salad, tea and sandwiches.

Twenty-four members and three visitors, Mrs. E. L. Boteler, Mrs. Calk, and Mrs. Ernest Staten, were present.

The club members were very happy to have two former members, Mrs. Robert Sharp and Mrs. R. F. Matthews return to the club. —contributed

He is always in a good humor, has a kindly word for everyone and richly merits the large number of friends that he has accumulated in this city.

A number of State Highway officials, including Hon. T. J. Lowery commissioner of this district, and Hon. E. L. Wilkinson, secretary of the commission, and Chief Engineer Harris were in Grenada Wednesday to see the Billups Crossing Signal in actual operation. These gentlemen not only saw the signal operate at the time Train No. 1 went North but nearly all of them remained over to see the same with the Panama Limited which went North at 7 o'clock. Following the second inspection these visitors were entertained at dinner at the Hotel Barrett.

We should say that the gents you are reading the library news are products of the artistry of Miss Griffith.

Meeting the Challenge of the Times . .

As our nation looks to its defenses, speed is the order of the day. And vital to the quickened tempo of industry and national activity is the country's telephone service. From sea to sea, in every corner of the land, it must function smoothly, quickly, regardless of the added burden it is called upon to bear.

In the nine southern states served by Southern Bell, more than twenty-one thousand skilled telephone workers, with years of experience in meeting emergencies, are keenly conscious of the important part they play in the national defense program. They accept this new and challenging responsibility with full confidence, for they are prepared—organized, trained, and equipped—to meet the test of the times.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear. They are meeting the nation's needs today. They are ready to meet those of tomorrow. — Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, Incorporated.

Share the Burden With the Guard

Soon now, members of National Guard and reserve corps are going to begin leaving civilian life for a year's tour of duty on active service.

In the past, national guard and reserve corps service did not mean those things. These peacetime soldiers gave up their regular vacation time to learning how to defend their country. Their absences in training were brief.

But now, being called up for training means real disruption in personal and working lives. It is no longer enough that American soldiers can be given brief courses in fundamentals and called ready. War as Europe presents it to our eyes today means skill and teamwork comparable to that of a well-oiled football team. This takes time. These young men are giving it.

All honor to them! These national guardsmen and reserves are the men who saw the need when the rest did not see it. They are the ones who gave evenings, and weekends, and vacations to their country when the rest were indifferent. They have had unpleasant service to perform in cases of domestic disorder or natural catastrophe. They have been sneered at as "tin soldiers," and sniffed at by the complacent.

They stuck to their organizations in the lean years when nobody cared. Now the nation calls them first. Now they look better than the sneerers and sniffers.

The duty on which they will soon embark is not theirs alone. Those who do not go also have a duty. It is cooperate and help in every possible way to minimize the sacrifices they make.

So far as possible their jobs should be kept ready for their return, so that in addition to a year of their lives, they need not also face the prospect of "beginning over" when their training is over. Consideration and help for their families and obligations are in order.

These young men are about to shoulder, voluntarily, their obligations as citizns to bear arms in defense of their country.

This does not shift the obligations of others to their shoulders. It creates additional obligations for those who do not march.

Billups Crossing Signal

The very ingenious and very effective crossing signal patented by Mr. W. A. Billups of Grenada and erected at the Barsh Crossing on No. 7 Highway north of Grenada continues to attract large crowds at each scheduled train time.

This device, embodying an appeal to the sense of hearing through piercing sirens and an appeal to the sense of sight through the illumination of neon signs depicting the words, "Death", "Stop", and the skull and crossbones, begins its dual warnings when a train gets within about one-quarter mile of the crossing. As soon as the train passes the crossing the lights and the sirens subside.

Most people who have seen this signal are, of course, merely laymen, but they are the potential victims of grade crossing accidents, and these people agree that this signal is the most effective one they have ever seen. They agree that if a driver crosses under this signal he is beyond reach of any warning device, however powerful.

There has been some little "talk" about the noise of the siren being a nuisance, but this criticism is easily answered by the statement that the noises of the train whistle absolutely drowns out the noise of the siren when both are in the air. As for being a nuisance to the immediate neighbors, Mr. Billups has a statement signed by the man who lives on the West side of the track and by the man who lives on the east side of the track to the effect that the siren bothers neither of them.

This May Help Morchants Advertise More Effectively

At various times the Auxiliary has suggested to publishers the advisability of their acting as "advertising counselors" in helping their merchants do a more effective merchandising job through the columns of their papers. After we had printed one such editorial, a publisher-friend came back at us with this: "That's good advice, all right, but the trouble is that I don't feel that I know as much about writing effective advertising as do most of my merchants, so I hesitate to pose as an expert and try to tell them how to do it."

That may be true in his case, but its our guess that if his merchants do know more about it than he does, then they are exceptional. For, as we look through the stack of country weeklies that come to our desk, it seems to us that we see far too much advertising which doesn't carry an effective merchandising message and which could be improved in that respect by suggestions from the AVERAGE country publisher, even if he does not classify as an "expert".

Apropos to this subject is an article which appears in the current issue of the Colorado Editor, headed "Fifteen Ways of Testing an Ad". This article reads:

A national retail clinic has prepared a chart, facts of which were derived from a series of questions and meant to measure the value of advertising. These questions can be used in many instances of profit to the publisher and the advertiser and they are excellent lessons on advertising.

1. Does this advertisement advertise merchandize a sizable number of people want—now?

2. Is this advertisement dramatic enough to get people's attention?

3. Can this advertisement be read easily and quickly?

4. Is this advertisement simple enough to be understood by the least intelligent of its prospective patrons?

5. Does this advertisement dramatize the most important thing about the goods mentioned?

6. Is this advertisement interesting enough to be read, acted on and bought from, or is it just so many words?

7. Does the advertisement advertise definite prices or is it indefinite in its price attack?

8. Does it tell what customers want to know about the fashions, fabrics, colors, sizes and other important facts of the merchandise featured?

9. Does it tell what the merchandise will do for the customer—does it tell its quality, its real worth and beauty in a way interesting to customers all the way?

10. Does it point out the hidden value, the real deep down quality feaetures of the goods?

11. Does it sell well enough to make people forget price for the desire to buy?

12. Is the selling attack wrapped up, or is 'tis selling string loosely tied?

13. Is it believable and should it be believable?

14. Does it represent the store? Does it sell the store, too, because of its value?

15. Is it worth the cost and has it a chance of selling enough to pay its way?

Old Hosteen Yazzie was one of the last Navajo Indians to surrender to the Army Scout, Kit Carson, and the U. S. Soldiers. He has been a familiar figure throughout the Southwest.

His "Lament" gives an idea how difficult it is for him to understand the "White Man's Ways". He is past 110 years of age.

We are genuinely appreciative of the job work which we have been permitted to do, and solicit more of it. Nobody can say the GCW is shoddily printed and looks like something the pigs rooted up down near the "Vine". Our job work is high class too.

It looks like Andrew and Mac have made up.

The cool weather left too soon.

A good friend kindly sent us the following "Library Notes", by Walt Mason published in a Texas paper:

"Books" (Rippling Rhymes) I sit me down in sylvan nooks and read about a million books, of every mortal kind, and some are tales of Nick, the Sleuth, and some are loaded down with truth, and they improve my mind. I read all kinds of printed junk, the good, the noble and the punk, the ancient and the new: and men who see me reading slop predict that if I do not stop, my head will go askew. All kinds of books I buy and hoard, and I'm the guy who's never bored, to whom no days seem long: I see my neighbors groan and yawn, and wish the weary hours were gone, the hours that seem all wrong. I see impatient people go to dance, to concert, or to show, to pass the eve away: and I sit happily at home and read some large and mildewed tome that makes my spirit gay. And on the cold and stormy nights I have at hand the rare delights that never stale or pall: I walk with grand old seers and bards through cloisters or in castle yards where sounds the herald's call.

"Amusement" is the modern cry: "Let us be entertained or die", the maudlin millions plead: but I don't care for tinsel shows, for ragtime noise, or things like those, for I have learned to read."

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

One of Grenada's best men, Dr. J. S. Sharp, celebrated his birthday last Friday. What birthday does not matter. Dr. Sharp has one unusual trait: He listens patiently and sympathetically to the troubles of all of us and, though he has greater trouble of his own, never burdens his friends with his own problems. Our best for many more birthdays go to one whom we regard most highly.

John Bradley has had to set out about eight extra plates recently.

Several prominent Ricker consumers are quarreling about the ticker situation. They claim that since Odom put the saloonkeepers out of the city limits, Ricker has gone up four-bits a pint and then, for customers have to drive half a mile further.

Several of our in-laws visited us Saturday night.

WARNING: This is a very deep joke. We have finally found out why Revell wants you to bring your catalog. He is fixing to move to the country.

The crowds going to see Billups' crossing signal continue to be large and interested.

The "speed trap" in Beat Four is still working, but it needs a little oil, as it is squeaking slightly.

George Mitchell died the one at Carrollton, but the astute and learned lawyer of Tupelo recently renewed his subscription.

Believe Brother H. C. Wilson has a new car.

Our overseer, Mr. George Terrell seems to have quit us to take up work with his handsome nephew, Jack Townes, in the Firestone Store. George guards the portals assiduously.

Hope John Emmons gets out a bale soon.

Our correspondent at Nebo, Hon. S. Burke, certainly predicted the [illegible] so far in advance. Wonder if the band wagon would have to be [illegible] equipped with a trailer. Mr. Nebo is for Bilbo a 100 percent vote. Hurrah for Bilbo.

Please pay your dues.

Rev. Pat Easterling assured himself of another 12 months of good reading matter, recently. We believe it, for the reader to guess in what manner.

Fred Sullens does not seem to find anything to say about Bilbo since the election, and there is little we can add right now about Longstaffe Ford.

Thanks to Gene Fly, Collector of Internal Revenue in this State, for a courtesy visit which he sent, and for a prompt renewal.

The gin whistles will soon be blowing and that's the sign that the good old seed money will soon be flowing around.

Drive with care, now that school has started. In one careless moment you can take a life - something that takes a lifetime to forget.

***

Louise McCaslin, one of my readers, therefore I know she is my friend, spent Sunday in Grenada. As you know, she is employed at the "power trust" office at Sardis.

***

She. W. Thompson has taken up the game where you hit the ball, look for it a half hour, and if lucky, find it and hit it again.

***

Speaking of golf reminds me of Sam Simmons Jr., who, if not one of Grenada's best golfers, is the luckiest. He made a hole in one on number 1 hole. That won't happen one time out of 10,000. Sam's "tail" not mine.

***

Mr. Honeycutt suggested that the Grenada County Weekly support Mr. Willkie for president, thereby insuring victory for Roosevelt. Well, Mr. Honey, Roosevelt is going to be elected anyway. Furthermore, we have a paper in this locality already supporting the Republican candidate.

***

They had a short at the Grenada Theatre Tuesday night testing your IQ. It asked how many hairs are there on the head of a blonde. The correct answer was 140,000. One hair on the coat of a man married to a brunette will cause plenty of trouble. You wicked married men had better watch your step, suppose one would "moult" on you some time.

***

Yes, most of the people in Grenada are for GHS, Ole Miss, and Roosevelt.

***

No more swimming; no more picnics; no more nothing is the thoughts that are in the initals of a lot of kids that started back to school this week. They look like they are about to die and will commit suicide before they have a chance to.

***

Went out and worked out with the football team the other day and I really got worked out. When I got thru my knees were popping together like two little negroes shooting a pair of dice.

***

Bubber Jack and Kirk McRee are getting rich selling blocks. I "muster" be in the lumber business. Net results were: Damn near killed several of my "paw's" mules, cut a lot of timber that never reached the mill, and finally had to borrow enough money from "ma" to pay off the workers.

***

Katie lee Sit Hitt go home for the week-end after making her promise Keene Huffington that she would bring her big sister back to Grenada with her.

***

This paper is still spelled "Weekly" not "Weakly". We think that our man Mississippi Short Staple Rayburn made a good race under the circumstances. Nobody knows what the next two years holds for Ford.

***

Sorry to note tht Mary Ann Scott is not much improved. We hope you recover soon. We miss your ever smiling and beautiful face.

The Willike for President boom is going to blow up like the British balloon barrages.

Any cotton grower who is not getting the feed value of his crop by feeding cottonseed products would be at least 110 years behind the times, according to a Southern farmer's comment in 1830. Writing to the "Southern Agriculturist and Register of Rural Affairs" over a century ago, this farmer mentioned cottonseed cake as "an artificial known to every farmer as nutritious food for cattle."

— Location Determines Modern Bridge Types —

WITH STRENGTH and durability in every line, staunch modern bridges carry Mississippi's new system of paved roads safely over natural barriers. Each of the state's new bridges has been built to meet the particular conditions of its location. Like some giant centipede, one of these new bridge structures is seen above marching across the Homochitto river south of Natchez on US 61. Both steel and creosote piling is used in bridge construction by the State Hightway Department. Tests have proven the strength and safety of both types. "State highway engineers have applied painstaking care and skill toward building a modern system of roads second to none in the nation," states Highway Commissioner Hiram J. Patterson of the Southern District, "and every effort will be made to keep it a source of pleasure, pride and profit to Mississippians for years to come."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Mrs. P. H. Youngblood and Mrs. Etta Dudley were charming hostesses at the home of the former, entertaining in honor of Dr. John Sidney Sharp's birthday.

Two tables were arranged for the games of pitch, and at the beginning of the games, it was announced that a high score prize would be given. Later in the evening, high score winner was awarded a large box and found it to be addressed to Dr. Sharp. The box contained many lovely gifts.

Delicious birthday cake and sherbet were served.

Those privileged to attend were: Dr. and Mrs. Sharp; James Russell Lockett and Miss Birja Wilkins; Mr. R. L. Scott and Mrs. Dudley; and the hostess and her husband.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Scott of Duck Hill grieve with them in the very critical illness of their lovely daughter, Miss Mary Ann, who is suffering from an infection following the extraction of a tooth. She is in Grenada Hospital.

Miss Margurete Stanley entertained delightfully at her country home one evening recently. The guests were seerved delicious home made hamburgers and cookies with cold drinks About twenty boys and girls enjoyed Margurctes hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brinker of Centralia, Ill. arrived Wednesday for a visit in the home of their sister, Mrs. T. B. Thrower and family, at the Methodist Parsonage. Attractive Miss Shirley Ann Brinker has been a guest of her aunt the past week.

Miss Marybel Brown will assume her duties as third grade teacher at Holcomb, on Friday.

BUFFET SUPPER

On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Gerard entertained in a special compliment to their son, Frank Jr., recently returned from the University of North Carolina where he received his M.A. degree.

The guest list was composed as near as possible of Frank's high school chums. There were several out-of-town guests complemented, including Mr. Stephens, of New Albany, house guest, and Mr. Charlton Moore and Miss Virginia Saurie, of Memphis.

For this occasion the reception suite was decorated with colorful zenias, roses and phlox.

The delicious buffet supper of chicken salad, potatoes, olives and mints, was served from the lace-draped dining table. Mrs. Moore Moore of Memphis served tea. The hostess and Mrs. Whyte Whitaker served hot spaghetti and buttered rolls from silver dishes.

This interesting group enjoyed thoroughly this lovely courtesy and the reassembling of life-long friends.

Mrs. Thelma Harris left Thursday for Poplarville, where, as the guest of relatives, she will visit and rest from her duties here at Grenada Clinic. Enroute, she will stop at Magee to see her brother, Mr. Will Farrell, who is critically ill following the removal of four ribs.

NOTES TAKEN ON A TRIP TO THE "EAST"

Cooley and I took a trip out East Tuesday afternoon, having as our objective the home of Wallace Lamon.

The first single stretch of No. 8 is now completely paved. The speed of the $15,000 paving machine employed on the job was miraculous. It is a beautiful road, well laid out, and will be a permanent mounment to Will Harris Crowder, the engineer in charge.

It is somewhat fitting that Crowder should be in charge, for his forbears settled in that country, and several of them were engineers. Witness the several "Crowder" Surveys in the City of Grenada.

I could not help but compare the dirt-moving equipment employed on the work near Graysport with the "Irishman and wheel-barrow" method used in constructing many railroad beds in this country. One load of the modern monster would equal the combined loads of at least 200 Irishmen with their barrows.

Turning off the highway at Redgrass Plantation, we went up the road leading to the Middle Road, and saw, enroute, some splendid farm work being done under he supervision of Mr. Hayward.

I have never seen a Hayward who did not really love the land and, loving it, he cares for it and "nurses" it.

In general, crops looks pretty well. In that section, it appears that ample corn and hay will be saved. Cotton generally is clean, has a large stalk but is said to be short in bolls. I did not get get out to examine any.

Fifteen years ago, every tenant, with rare exceptions, not only had a "goober" patch, but a sweeet potato patch, and, above all else, a sorghum patch. I saw BUT ONE sorgbum patch on this 20-mile round. There is a moral hidden somewhere in those circumstances.

Brother Moore, an industrious and frugal farmer, was cutting the best hay I saw en route. Apparently his other crops are in fine shape. I think the only sorghum patch seen - and that a large one - was on his place.

As we reached the Middle Road we encountered a nest of homes, those of the Moore family, Bunk Gray and Will Rook; and off to the East a bit, the home of George Chamberlain. That is a fine nest of people, or a nest of fine people.

George Chamberlain's road crew had just been along and had the roads, especially the connecting road, in fine shape. He seems to follow a good scheme, that of working the roads to homes from the public roads where circumstances will permit.

Cooley tells me that there is great prospect at this time for the establishment of a new REA line connecting up all of that country, as well as the country up about Mt. Nebo.

Brother Lamon, the objective of our trip, was either helping a negro repair and reroof the barn, or was showing the negro how to do it. In any event, he semmed glad to stop and visit with us, and to take us into his comfortable home.

Brother Lamon was kind enough to show me the photographs of his four daughters, several of his sons and some of his grandchildren. It was a fine looking, handsome bunch and he can not be blamed for taking pride in his children, all of whom are now away from home, and all doing well. It should be said, in justice to the children, that it is evident that they take after their sainted mother in looks even if many of their sterling qualities are attributable to their father, who is not much to look at.

Mr. Lamon, like many of the fine people of that section, lives at home and boards there too, and does not depend entirely upon the uncertainties of cotton. Keeping a jack and a stallion, he raises colts. He also has quite a bunch of cattle.

Coming back, we could not but notice the rapid development of the area on each side of the new Bogue bridge on new No. 8 Highway.

Much obliged to cousin Charley Umbright of Chicago for a nice leather bill folder. That's two we got. Gene Fly sent one.

Our Man Hugh just naturally started his campaign too late. And, like one fellow said, did not use enough calcium arsenate in the Garrett cans.

Dear Brother Gant, be sure to save us about five gallons of that good old Louisiana syrup when you "make up".
